

From: HiMarkChow@aol.com [mailto:HiMarkChow@aol.com]
Sent: Saturday, March 18, 2006 10:37 PM
To: MLPAComments@resources.ca.gov
Subject: MLPAComments: MLPA Comments

Simply,

I really oppose this entire process, being placed on the citizens of California. I believe, that the newly modeled protection areas are completely too restrictive, and possibly, following a "protectionist agenda"

I have now heard, that there is consideration to close off these regions to sport fishermen, fishing pelegic finfish such as Salmon and Albacore, which, their continued viability, is not necessarily contingent on protection to spawn in benthic protected regions. The limiting factor for salmon, is really stream and river spawning habitat! Such actions, make me question the scientific credibility of the plan designers.

I again, believe that this is going in an extremely wrong direction.

Mark Chow, MBA
BA, Zoology, UC Berkeley, 1982